How to Use Holland Bulbs

Holland Bulbs, as the earliest group of spring bloomers, are one of Nature's most precious garden gifts. What would otherwise be a desolate and soggy garden period becomes transformed and brightened with the fragrance and color of tulips, hyacinths, narcissi, crocuses, and their kindred.

Holland bulbs are useful and beautiful in the smallest garden and on the largest estate; indoors or outdoors, for forcing, bedding, or naturalizing. Within the bulbs is stored all the future glory of leaves and flowers, requiring only the simplest culture to develop them to their highest perfection.

There is no dearth of color in this family, the wide range including shades and combinations of blue, brown, yellow, white, orange, purple, red, pink, crimson, black, and violet. Holland Bulbs, as a class, are also the lowest-priced hardy plants in existence, yet their beauty and utility are unsurpassed. No one who buys plants can afford to be without Holland Bulbs.

How to Grow Holland Bulbs

Dutch Bulbs are extremely modest in their cultural demands.

Many of the old rules for bulb-growing would lead an ordinary gardener to infer that success is concealed from ordinary mortals, and that certain rites must be followed if even ordinary results are to be secured. Not so, but there are certain simple cautions to be observed which will assure stronger growth and larger blooms.

What to Do in Fall

1. Light, rich, well-drained soil is the best for bulbs. Add sand or ashes to clay soil, or clay to sandy soil. Do not use fresh manure. Vigoro is a safe concentrated and convenient plant-food. Prepare the beds before bulbs arrive.
2. Uniform depth of planting is essential for bedding. Irregular depth produces irregular bloom.
3. Most important—be sure to plant to correct depth. Three times the diameter of the bulb is a safe and easy rule.
4. Do not apply top-dressing until ground is frozen.
5. Ask for our circular on indoor forcing.
6. Place orders early for early fall shipment.

MOONLIGHT

WHAT TO DO IN SPRING

1. Do not remove top cover until danger of spring frosts has passed.
2. Keep weeded and cultivated until blooms appear.
3. Cut all blooms before seed-pods appear. Do not cut foliage until wilted.
4. If desired, lift clean, cure and store bulbs in dry, cool place until fall.

Darwin Tulips

Darwin Tulips are highly recommended for massing in shrubbery and for providing contrasting colors in the spring garden. Groups of twenty-five to fifty bulbs of one color produce striking and beautiful effects. In form, the cupped blooms are entirely distinct from all other classes of Tulips; they are unusually large and borne on long stems. Bulbs may be forced if brought to the heat not earlier than January. Garden bloom, May 15.

Breeder Tulips

Breeder Tulips are the unbroken forms of the old florists' Tulips. The blooms strongly resemble the Darwins, excepting that they have an entirely different range of color—artistic tones of bronze, terracotta, orange, and brown.

Breeder Tulips are May-flowering, producing blooms of enormous size, and because they are vigorous growers are valuable for the garden. We have taken great pains to select only the choicest varieties, and recommend all of them to anyone who wishes something especially fine. In height and blooming season they are practically identical with Darwins and can well be combined with them.

When the spring sun begins to warm the ground, the Crocuses quickly respond to the bright rays. Following the snowdrops, they are among the very earliest spring flowers, and are most effective when dotting the lawn without any fixed plan of arrangement. The bulbs can be strewn thickly over the surface and be set where they fall, merely lifting the sod with a knife or trowel, slipping the bulbs underneath and pressing the sod back into place.

Hyacinths

"If thou hast but two loaves of bread, sell one of them, and buy white Hyacinths to feed thy soul"

Culture is similar to other bulbs. Plant 6 inches apart and cover with 4 inches of soil. Setting the bulbs on a layer of sand improves the bloom. They are best in beds and other formal arrangements. A most popular indoor plant; anyone can handle them. Unexcelled for fragrance.

We specialize in the best grade Hyacinths. The stock for 1929 is of 18-19 centimeters circumference, second in size only to the very largest bulbs obtainable. If the blooms produced are not of the largest you have ever seen, your money will be refunded.
